Union Leaders Hear Mitchell On Racketeering

Labor Secretary
Discloses Demand
Made of Teamsters

SAN FRANCISCO AP — Labor secretary James P. Mitchell told the AFL-CIO convention Friday the government is cracking down against racketeers and subversives in union leadership under the new labor control law.

Mitchell disclosed he wired a demand to Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa that he produce within 10 days a list of all Teamsters Union officers or employees with criminal or Communist records.

The Landrum-Griffin labor law, which President Eisenhower signed last Monday, bans anyone convicted of certain crimes or a Communist party member from serving as a union official for five years after such conviction or membership.

Mitchell also demanded that Hoffa advise "what action your organization is taking regarding these individuals."

A union knowingly employing a criminal offender violates the new law's provisions as does the official himself.

Hoffa said in Detroit he would turn Mitchell's telegram over to his lawyers for study "if and when I receive it." He indicated he was familiar with the contents of the telegram but declined comment.

The labor secretary said he sent similar messages to officials of some other unions, too. He did not name them.

The convention, roused to anger against Mitchell and President Eisenhower by the stalemate steel strike and the prospect of an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction to halt the strike, greeted Mitchell with a low swell of boos.

But Mitchell sailed into his talk and declared he believed steel industry leaders were naive and short-sighted if they expected a Taft-Hartley injunction to achieve strike settlement.

Instead, Mitchell declared, the industry risks distasteful legislation from Congress should the strike renew after the 80-day period.

"When Congress resumes in January it will be a political Congress on the eve of national conventions and there will have to be, if the strike continues, some legislative action," Mitchell said.

"Now what kind of action can you visualize? Well, you can visualize legislative action that would be inimical to the best interests of the companies that make steel."

Mitchell later told a news conference he intended his assessment as a warning to the steel industry.

Mitchell drew mounting applause near the end of his talk. The convention then voted unanimously to collect up to 30 million dollars a month from the AFL-CIO's 12½ million members to support the steel strikers.

Under the plan all union members will be asked to give one hour's pay a month for the strike's duration.

The fund was established as a permanent policy to help finance major strikes in the future. It parallels somewhat strike insurance plans set up in several industries to cushion strike losses.

The convention is in recess until Monday morning.

Rev. Milligan Begins Duties Here Nov. 1

The Rev. Bruce E. Milligan of Okmulgee, Okla., who has accepted a call from the First Presbyterian Church, will assume his new duties Nov. 1.

The Rev. Milligan succeeds the Rev. Laten Carter.

Present pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Okmulgee, the Rev. Milligan spoke at a special service here Thursday evening in the church.

The new minister is expected to arrive here late in October with his wife and four children.

Red Chief Heads for Los Angeles

Khrushchev Visits New York's Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev took a brisk, uneventful tour of Harlem today, and then flew to Los Angeles for a quick look at the West.

His big plane left Idlewild Airport at 9:42 a.m. (EDT), for a 5½-hour flight to Los Angeles. Much had been made of Khrushchev's plans to visit Harlem, one of the world's best known Negro communities. The Communists often have pointed accusingly at this country's Negro policies, and Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to the United Nations and Khrushchev's guide on this trip, said in a speech Thursday that we still have far to go.

But today's trip made no more of a stir than it would through any other part of the city so early in the morning.

Trucks had washed down the streets before Khrushchev went by, cleaning the place up a bit. Only several hundred persons were out when Khrushchev went by. A few waved.

Khrushchev made his visit 12 hours too early. He should have seen it on Saturday night. Then the joint is jumping.

At the airport Khrushchev touched on a point that has bothered everyone who has watched his whirlwind campaign: He is meeting plenty of big shots, but scarcely any garden variety Americans.

Khrushchev said he is sorry he hasn't seen more "working people."

From his meetings, he said, he has the impression that "the leaders and especially the people to not want war."

"Unfortunately, for obvious reasons, I did not have the opportunity to come in close contact with the ordinary people of New York."

He then explained why:

"The working people might ask why there were no meetings between them and me. I have been told of some provocative elements who take a negative attitude to our visit to the city."

"It is my firm impression that those who are unfriendly are very few, only a drop in the sea."

The Khrushchevs were out early today, apparently still going strong despite the terrific pace they have maintained.

Both had kind words for the officials of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where they stayed while here, and for at least one hotel employee.

Miss Theresa Pizzorusso, elevator operator from Brooklyn, had goodbyes, in English, from both Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchev.

"He was very courteous," she said, "and so was his wife."

The Russian Premier shook hands with Pio Dell Agnese, manager of the Waldorf Towers apartments, and said, in Russian, "Thank you very much for everything."

Dell Agnese, an old hand at handling dignitaries, said: "Mr. Khrushchev seemed to be happy. He was beaming."

A hard man to pry away from a microphone once he gets in front of it, Khrushchev talked for 15 minutes at the airport.

He put in a plug for the disarmament plan he gave the United Nations Friday.

"If accepted," he said, it "would open up a new era of peaceful relations between the states."

His final words:

"Goodbye, dear friends."

Khrushchev's plane — a U.S. military jet — will rush him across the continent to fulfill one of the strangest appointments in what must be the strangest trip ever undertaken by the head of a major modern nation.

He is due in Los Angeles in time for lunch at 20th Century-Fox studios. Then he will see the filming of a number from the musical "Can-Can." If everything is on schedule, this would be just over 24 hours from the moment he proposed world disarmament in four years to the United Nations.

Tonight, there is a dinner given by Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles.

Bow Calls Tours Necessary

Congressmen Resent Term for Their Trips

WASHINGTON AP — The word "junket" makes a congressman flinch. It has a sound he resents, since it means a trip at taxpayers' expense.

This, most congressmen will tell you, is entirely unfair. Inspection trips to places abroad affected by the legislation they write, they say, are worth far more to the public than the cost.

Just a few weeks ago, an Ohioan on the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. Frank T. Bow R-Ohio, wrote a news release explaining at length why he thought the taxpayers benefited from his inspection trip to the U. S. Fair at Moscow.

Whatever value these trips may have, a lot of senators and representatives take them. For example, nearly a third of the Ohioans in Congress have been abroad or are going soon this year.

Indeed, so many congressmen from throughout the United States were absent in the recent session that the House leadership is considering banning tax-paid trips abroad while Congress is in session.

Getting down to cases, Ohio's senators, Democrats Frank J. Lausche and Stephen M. Young, have taken no trips outside this country this year and have not

Mine Flooded to Quench Fire

47 Scottish Miners Given Up for Dead

KIRKINTILLOCH, Scotland (AP) — Forty-seven Scottish miners were given up for dead today as rescue operations stopped temporarily while a coal mine was flooded to extinguish an underground fire.

Rescue squads toiled for 18 hours to put out the fire until they were driven back by a large concentration of carbon monoxide gas—the dreaded white damp that can cause death in minutes.

"Altogether 47 men are missing in the colliery and are presumed dead," an official of the government's coal board said Friday night. "There is practically no hope of survivors."

The fire started in the 50-year-old Auchengish Colliery Friday morning when an electric fan burst into flames. Nearby supporting girders and timbers caught fire. Acrid fumes and smoke rolled rapidly through passageways.

The flames ate through timbers and caused rock and earth falls, trapping the miners who were riding on a pit train 1,500 feet underground.

Rescue workers equipped with oxygen masks descended quickly and were able to rescue one man. The body of another was brought to the surface about noon.

Only a three-day strike which ended Thursday probably prevented a greater tragedy. The mine, 10 miles from Glasgow, employed 800 men. Most had stayed home and planned to resume work Monday.

Thomas Green, 50, was the miner who was rescued. He had collapsed while crawling through the smoke to warn fellow miners. He was found unconscious.

$75,000 Collection Of Synthetic Gems To Be Shown Here

Salem will score a pair of "first time" honors when a $75,000 collection of star rubies and sapphires is placed on a week's display here beginning Oct. 6.

This will be the first Ohio showing of synthetic gems by the Linde Company of New York.

"The Stars are in Salem Week," as it will be called, also marks the first time the collection has been displayed under Chamber of Commerce sponsorship.

The exhibition is built around two famous artifacts of the gem world. One is the Coronation necklace, valued at $25,000, which was first worn at the ascension of Queen Elizabeth II to the English throne. The other is a 92-karat star ruby, fourth largest stone of its type in the world.

In addition to these valuable gems, assorted one-of-kind rings, pendants and earrings will also be displayed by the Linde Co.

Assisting the local Chamber in its "Stars Week" will be Miss Ruth Greene, called the "Golden Girl of Jewelry" by Linde, a division of Union Carbide.

The idea of bringing the gem display to Salem was originated by jeweler Dan Smith, who is being assisted in arranging the program by fellow Retail Merchants Division members Dick Strain, Bill Malloy, Louise Bunn and Mary Bowman.

The Chamber is hoping to brighten the Spotlight on Salem Oct. 6-10 by arranging for the Linde Company representative to appear on Northeast Ohio TV programs. Miss Greene will also explain the story of the gems to various service and professional clubs here in Salem.

Six Fined, Leave Bond Forfeits here

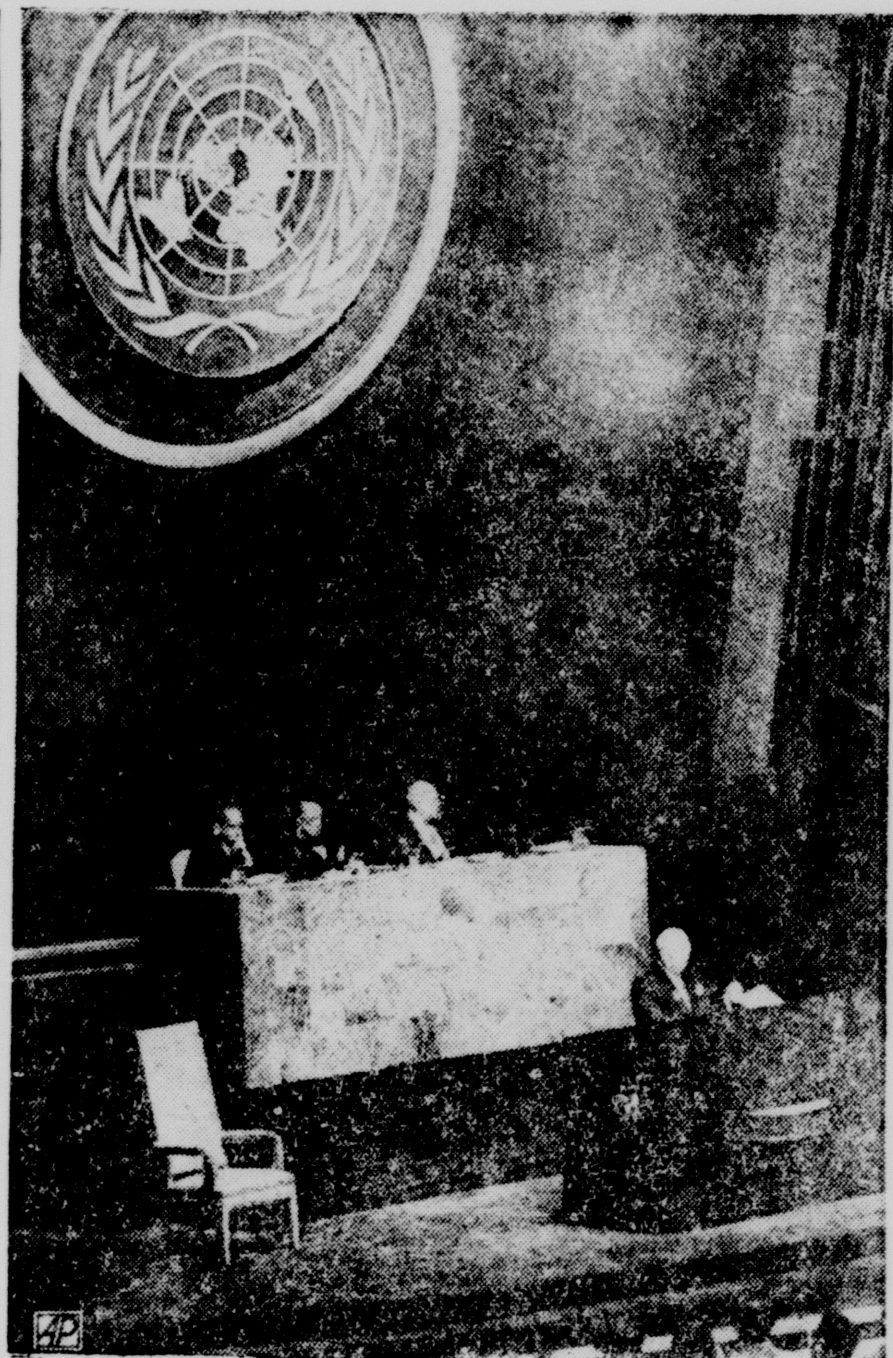

Sixty dollars were collected from six errant motorists by Mayor Harold Smith Thursday and Friday.

Joan C. Hendron, 21, of 1765 Southeast Blvd. was fined $5 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

Forfeiting bonds by failing to appear in Mayor's Court were: Henry Stevelberg, 47, of Cleveland Heights, $10, speeding; Hazel J. Jackson, 66, of RD 4, Salem, $10, speeding; Lois L. Althouse, 18, of RD 2, $15, speeding; Virgil E. Barringer, 33, of RD 1, North Jackson, $10, speeding; and A. R. Hilliard, 17, of Kensington, $10, failure to obey stop sign.

George Baillie Named By Industrial Institute

T. S. Long, president of the Taylor-Winfield Corp., Warren, has been re-elected for his second term as president of the Industrial Information Institute, and two new vice-presidents including George W. Baillie of Salem, have been elected by the board of trustees.

Baillie, president of the Quaker City Foundry, Inc., was elected vice president representing Columbiana County.

H. G. Robertson, works manager, Alliance Works, American Steel Foundries, was named vice president representing Alliance.

Baillie fills the vacancy created by the resignation of H. M. Heckathorn, formerly with Youngstown Kitchens Division, American Standard, All other officers were re-elected.

The Alliance post was newly created.

J. H. Wilson, president of the Salem Tool Co., was elected to the board of trustees to complete the term of K. U. Wirtz, president of The Electric Furnace Co., who resigned.

The elections came this week at the annual meeting of the board of trustees which also saw the approval of the institute's 1959-60 program. The institute has conducted a program of community information and economic education in the Mahoning and Shen-

Nina Cancels Plans to See Show

Russia's First Lady In Husband's Shadow

NEW YORK (AP) — Nina Khrushchev, a lady who seems to like being in the background, spent her second day in New York very much in the shadow of Mr. K.

The motherly looking, pleasant wife of the Soviet Premier had a taste of being a celebrity Thursday night without her husband, when she watched the Broadway show "The Music Man" while the audience watched her.

It was originally on the schedule for Mrs. Khrushchev to attend "My Fair Lady" Friday night, but the plan was cancelled without explanation.

Instead Mrs. Khrushchev stayed close at the heels of her husband — and let him do all the talking. After a trip to Hyde Park and a brief visit with Mrs. Franklin

About Controls on Disarmament Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's four-year plan for a world without armies or arms struck most non-Communist diplomats today as a propaganda maneuver—but one worthy of study.

Western delegates at the U. N. promised to give consideration to the plan but the prediction was they will eventually reject it as a Utopian dream everyone shares—but only a dream at the present stage of the East-West struggle.

Disappointment was felt in many world capitals that basically his widely advertised program put forward Friday before the 82 nation General Assembly offered little new.

Khrushchev was vague about establishing controls for his program of scrapping armed forces and weapons of wars—and Western insistence on controls has been the nub of the disarmament deadlock.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said in a formal statement the scheme "will require very careful examination though it seems to repeat proposals for total disarmament made by the Soviet Union" in 1932 and 1955.

"The United States," Herter said, "will go as far on the path of controlled disarmament as any other country. I stress the word 'controlled' because up to now the previous proposals have foundered on the Soviet government's refusal to agree to effective controls."

Communist delegations — Hungary and Poland—hailed the Soviet leader's proposals as a big step forward.

Suspicion was widespread among other diplomats at the U. N. and in the non-Communist world capitals.

Khrushchev told the General Assembly in a 65-minute speech "the essence of our proposals is that

One Killed, 5 Hurt As Plane Crashes In Southern Ohio

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — One woman was killed and five other persons injured early today in crashes of two private planes in Hocking County just north of the Athens County line.

The two Cessna 140 planes had been trying to make landings on a private field during a fog.

Mrs. Jane M. Carsner, 39, Nelsonville, was killed in one crash and the pilot of her plane, Max Bennett, 43, Nelsonville, was injured. He walked away from the crash. A passing motorist took him to Mount St. Marys Hospital in Nelsonville for treatment.

That plane crashed just north of the Athens County line about 500 feet west of U.S. 33, at 2:30 a.m.

Twenty minutes earlier, a plane piloted by James Linscott, 36, Nelsonville, carrying three passengers, tried to make a landing two miles from the scene of the second crash, about three miles south of U.S. 33 and just east of Ohio 328. The plane hit some electric wires and overturned.

Linscott and his passengers, Jack Antel, Catherine Harold and Betty Tigner, all of Nelsonville, suffered minor injuries and were treated at Mount St. Marys Hospital in Nelsonville.

Mrs. Carsner was the wife of the manager of a private flying field near Nelsonville.

The highway patrol is investigating the two crashes.

Newest Method In Use

Records Are Being Used In Teaching World Gospel

NEW YORK (AP)—Recordings played on tiny, toy-like phonographs are the newest method of spreading the Gospel to high illiteracy areas of the world.

For $1.50 a Congo tribesman, a Nigerian or an Indian in Mexico speaking a Mayan dialect can buy the phonograph—and six records telling in his own tongue the life of Jesus.

The American Bible Society, which in its 143-year history has distributed millions of Bibles, believes the program is an answer to need for some means to project Christianity to nonreaders.

In the last year the program has reached 12 foreign countries and several Indian tribes in this country. About 10,000 recordings have been distributed, most of them to native preachers. The Bible society hopes to have 100 dialects on record in three years.

The finger fono, made of plastic, costs less than $1 to manufacture and weighs under a pound. It has no speaker system—a metal diaphragm crudely amplifies the sound. A record is spun by hand with a small crank-like gadget atop the turntable.

"The phonograph is as simple as it can be," says Richard Crane, field recorder for the project. "A breakfast cereal even was offering something similar as a premium not long ago."

In a year Crane has traveled 40,000 miles by air and hundreds more on foot, horseback and in jungle jitneys to record the dialect.

He was downed by malaria, had a nervous encounter with a hostile tribesman in Africa, came within inches of tumbling over a 1,000-foot cliff in Mexico.

Next month he'll pack his 80 pounds of battery-powered recording equipment and be off for the Philippines. Later he hopes to go to Thailand and Burma, and next year South America.

Greenford

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eyrich of Bowie, Ariz., formerly of Greenford, became the parents of a son, Timothy Druex, Sept. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eyrich of Youngstown are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Audley Kuhns and Salem Gromley returned home Sunday after a week's fishing in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knauf of Safford, Ariz., are the parents of a baby girl, Kimberly Lynn, born Sept. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Feicht of San Manuel, Ariz., formerly of Greenford, are the maternal grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kauf of near Califield are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Feicht of Columbiana are the parents of a daughter, Melinie Kay, born Sept. 10. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Feicht are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baird returned home recently from Wolston, Mass. Their daughter, Nancy and Miss Iva Shoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shoff, began their freshman year at the Eastern Nazarene College there.

The Green Township Home Extension Club met Tuesday at the grange hall. Mrs. Frances McLaughlin was elected president; Mrs. Joe Batyski; vice-president; and Mrs. Kenneth Dunn, secretary - treasurer. Mrs. Raymond Hendricks was chosen council member. The club is planning a women's roast September 23 at the Greenford L. E. Coy Memorial Park. Everyone is to bring their own wieners and bus and a coverdish. The next meeting will be Oct. 6.

The Greenford Booster Club held its first meeting of the year Monday. The club recently gave $300 toward the purchasing of new uniforms for the football team. This club is for the benefit of the whole school not just the athletic department. A secretary and treasurer will be elected at the next meeting, Oct. 12.

A party honoring Miss Imogene West and Miss Anna Marie Kurtz was held recently at the home of Mrs. Ross Brunner. Miss West has returned from Los Angeles, Calif., to spend six months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank West. During her stay she will attend Youngstown University. Miss Kurtz left Monday to begin her junior year at EMC College in Virginia.

Jerry Hendricks, Bruce Rhodes, and Don Kuhns resumed their studies at Youngstown University Monday.

Bill Charlton is starting his senior year at Kent State University. Approximately 125 persons attended the housewarming of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Knauf Sunday.

The Knaufs recently moved into their new home at Toots Corners. Mrs. LeRoy Goodman and Mrs. Charles Stearns arranged the party.

Mrs. Frank West will be visiting with her 98-year-old mother, who lives in Norway.

The annual Greenford School Fair will be held October 2 at 7 p.m.

The Greenford School enrollment for the 1959-60 term was increased over last year's enrollment by 30. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Dressel and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rhodes attended calling hours and the funeral of T. O. Rhodes of Pittsburgh Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. William Feicht II, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Rhodes and Mr. and Mrs. Don Kuhns also attended calling hours.

Methodist Conference To Be Held Tuesday

The Steubenville District Conference of Methodist Churches will be held Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in Carrollton.

The Rev. William Snowball, pastor of the First Methodist church here, will conduct the worship service at 10 a.m.

District reports will be presented at 10:45 a.m. after which lunch will be served.

Dr. George Beebe will report on the Lakeside Crusade at 1:45 p.m. Principal speaker at 2:30 p.m. is Dr. Carl Bracy, president of Mount Union College.

SACHA INDICTED

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—John Sacha, 70, of Warren, was indicted for first-degree murder by the Trumbull County grand jury Thursday in the shooting of a neighbor Aug. 7. He has been held without bond since the shooting.

Police said Sacha killed Mrs. Katherine Prokopowich, 67, and wounded her husband, Joseph, in a property line dispute.

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Magic Power of Love

Love has a magic all its own. Really, it's very strange how we overlook the simple truth that if we love people and treat them with kindness, they will love us in return. That is an old theory, but it's as good now as it's ever been.

For some days now my family and I have been the guests of a gentle lady, eighty years old. She has snow-white hair, a face overspread with kindness and a happy laugh that makes everyone laugh with her. As I write, I sit in the courtyard of her home in the old city of Jerusalem listening to the music of a spashing fountain. Golden sunshine slants through a tall cypress and a stately palm.

The life of this woman, however, has been far from serene and tranquil. And her delicate gentility does not blind one to her rugged strength and purpose. Bertha Spafford Vester is one of the oldest residents of Jerusalem, Jordan, one of the best known, and admittedly the best loved. For seventy-seven years she has been a familiar figure to all people of the Holy City where, in every time of need, she has given herself to the poor, the sick, the needy.

TO ME, HER BABY HOSPITAL, the Spafford Memorial Hospital, was the most deeply moving of all the sights I saw either in Jordan or Israel, including all the holy places. The latter are memorials of Christianity. Her hospital for babies and little children is Christianity in current action. I tell the presence of an alive Christ as we passed from bed to bed looking into appealing little faces.

Not only children, but anyone who needs help gets the immediate compassionate assistance of Mrs. Vester. A Bedouin woman came timidly to Mrs. Vester's outpatient clinic where, in 1958, nearly sixty thousand people were treated free of charge. Heavily veiled, the woman was hiding something which proved to be a terrible tubercular sore, festering and full of pus, from her ear to her breast.

"It will cost much money for the medicine alone—$500 to cure this woman and we just haven't got it," said the doctor to Mrs. Vester.

"Yes, I know," was Mrs. Vester's answer, "but the woman must be healed. So start the treatment. I will pay and, as he has done before, God will send the money."

"Did He?" I asked.

HER MERRY EYES TWINKLED. "Don't you believe there are still Good Samaritans? I prayed and a few days later there came a letter from America. And what do you think it contained?"

"I know," I said, "a check for $500."

She nodded. "Some people would say that's coincidence, but since it's been happening in our work for seventy-five years, I came to the conclusion that it is more than coincidence; it's the law of prayer and human need."

On prayer, faith and love she has maintained a baby hospital and outpatient clinic that doctors from all over the world come to study.

The one and only doctor in this amazing hospital is Dr. Mahmood Dajani. Scarcely have I known a doctor of deeper compassion and greater skill. He operated on 900 cases in four years with but one casualty. And while lacking needed modern equipment, he compensated by intuitive knowledge, skillful practice and something else.

How to Get the Best Education For Your Child

Should Johnny Skip a Grade?
Gifted Child Has Trouble Too

This is the tenth of 15 articles, condensed from the book, "How To Get the Best Education for Your Child," written by the former education editor of the New York Times and his wife, an educator herself.

By D. BENJAMIN FINE And LILLIAN FINE

If you are the parent of a gifted child you are probably wondering whether that is a blessing or a curse. Too often the talented child is the forgotten child in school.

We have special programs for the emotionally disturbed, for the mentally retarded, and for the physically handicapped. Unfortunately, the gifted pupils are almost certain to be asked to shift for themselves.

"In the ordinary elementary-school situation, children of 140 IQ waste half their time," writes one researcher. "Those above 170 IQ waste practically all their times. With little to do, how can these children develop power of sustained effort, respect for the task or habit of steady work?"

FOR PARENTS, the waste of talent often is a personal tragedy. Prof. Harold Benjamin, of George Peabody College for Teachers, notes: "About 50 per cent of U.S. high school graduates who are 'mentally elite' do not go to college now."

Experts find the individual intelligence test, if given by a competent psychologist, to be the most reliable single tool for identifying the gifted. Several tests should be given at several times. Standardized tests of achievement in several subjects are also useful in identifying the gifted. School marks are less reliable.

One thing psychologists, pediatricians, and teachers agree on is the importance of identifying the gifted child as early as possible. The highly endowed youngster who drifts through elementary school unrecognized is likely to develop poor habits of work and of thinking.

IF YOUR YOUNG CHILD shows signs of unusual ability, it is wise for you to visit a guidance clinic or testing center and discuss the situation with a member of the staff. For a reasonable fee a series of tests will be given and the results analyzed.

What are very superior and gifted children like?

On the whole, they tend to be better developed physically than average youngsters of the same age. They like to read. They are interested in a great many things; they particularly like games and plays. They have many hobbies.

They are less inclined to boast than are average children. They are more trustworthy and act more mature than their age. Their character and social attitudes are more wholesome than the average.

As a parent of a gifted child you constantly face this problem: To skip or not to skip? About a quarter of a century ago bright children were pushed ahead at a rapid pace. Then many parents found that indiscriminate skipping proved harmful. It is not enough for a child to have a high IQ. His emotional quotient must also be high.

NOW THE CYCLE has come all the way around. Acceleration is once again popular — with this difference: The child's emotional maturity is taken into consideration.

Should classes for bright children be established? Why not? It is not undemocratic to give each child education to his fullest capacity. That will prove, in the long run, the best way to train our talented youth.

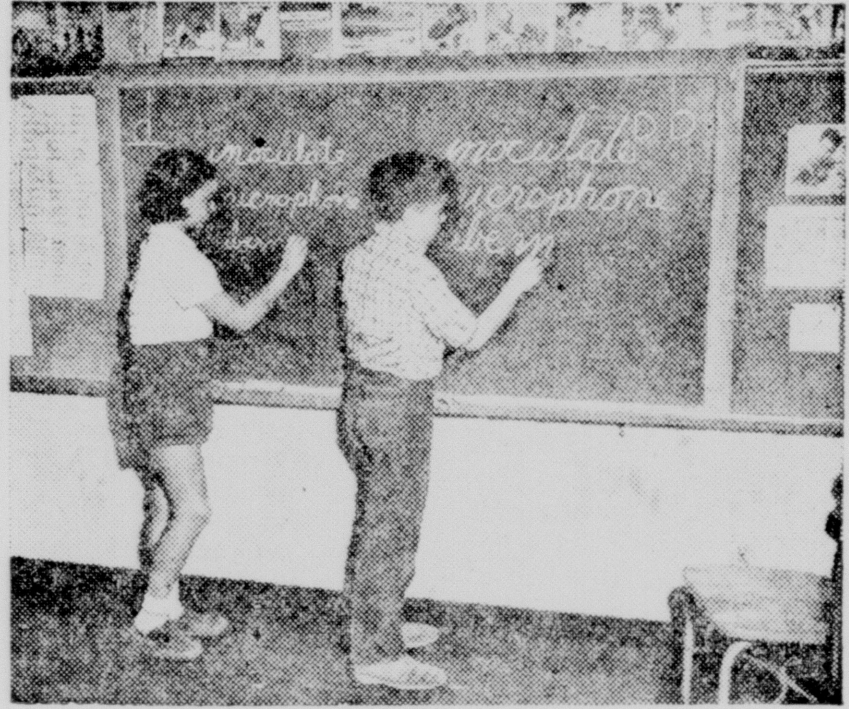

You may worry at this point and ask, "Won't special classes for the bright create snobs? Won't the children think too much of themselves?"

We do not believe that experience has borne that criticism out. If you accept his talent and do not make a special fuss over it, your child will undoubtedly accept his superiority in the classroom without much ado.

A third method of providing opportunities for children with superior mental ability is to keep them in the same class with average and dull-normal pupils but to supply "enrichment" for them. They are excused from some of the more elementary work and are encouraged to engage in projects or to read more advanced material on the subject being studied.

THIS SOUNDS GOOD, but in practice it is apt to mean merely extra homework. It is a strong temptation for the teacher to tell the bright ones to read a book or "answer all the questions on page 230."

Gifted children may have real difficulty finding congenial friends of their own age. Their interests are different from those of average children. To some extent this difficulty continues throughout life.

An awareness of and sensitivity to the world's injustices and tragic situations is probably the source of another problem of the gifted. Fortunately, most gifted people have a strong sense of humor.

What can you do to help your gifted youngster avoid strains and problems which are mostly not of his own making? Even more than the average child, the gifted needs love, understanding, encouragement, and a relaxed atmosphere in the home. And in most cases they are likely to give a great deal in return.

The American Association for Gifted Children (15 Gramercy Park, New York 3, N.Y.) is a useful source of information about ways to help gifted children.

FAR MORE than the average child, the gifted youngster is likely to respond to parental efforts to enrich his education. Books, records, family discussions of cultural matters, excursions to places of historical interest are all recommended.

The development of hobbies can be both educationally and emotionally beneficial. And learning a trade is not only valuable from the vocational point of view; it also helps give a person self-confidence.

When the talented boy or girl finds the public school hostile or, at best, a prison of boredom, you may want to investigate the offerings of private schools.

The question that remains to be solved is how the schools can develop the best program for your talented child. You can help find the answer by supporting whatever efforts are being made in your school, or by initiating those efforts if they are not being made. The gifted can, with profit, take such "tough" courses as advanced mathematics, foreign languages, physics and chemistry.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Conant of Harvard, a talented pupil would take a program of five solid subjects each semester in high school, spend 15 to 20 hours a week on homework, and be held to high standards of achievement.

"He would also have time for courses in such fields as art, music and industrial arts which would enrich his program and whole cultural background," Dr. Conant reports.

Whatever the final answer, the problem must be solved now. A child in the first grade only once. If that year is wasted, it can never be reclaimed.

She'll Never Neglect Him...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Samuel	1	26-28
Monday	Luke	2	32-40
Tuesday	I Samuel	3	17-19
Wednesday	Luke	2	46-49
Thursday	I Corinthians	2	3-5
Friday	Psalms	37	3-6
Saturday	Deuteronomy	7	9

Mrs. Thompson is a "modern" mother. She wouldn't think of neglecting her baby's regular visit to the doctor. She knows that these early check-ups plus proper diet, rest and care, are vital if her child is to grow up into a strong, healthy boy, ready to take his place in tomorrow's world.

Nor will she forget an even more important factor in his development—his spiritual check-ups. When the time comes and baby is old enough, his tiny footsteps will lead him into Church School where another kind of ministry will be given to him. Later still, he will worship with his parents, and the importance of the family unit together at work, at play and in worship will be engrained in his mind.

In tomorrow's world he will be well equipped to take his place physically, mentally . . . and spiritually.

Lobbying In Perspective

The report of the Franklin County Grand Jury on lobbying in the Legislature only touches the surface of an intangible topic.

It can serve nevertheless to give Ohioans a better understanding of this oft-misunderstood aspect of the legislative process. For it points up the frequently overlooked fact that there are two sides to the lobbying picture.

After some well publicized investigating, the jury reported it had enough evidence to indict one lobbyist and to urge the appointment of a special group to carry on its study.

"The grand jury cannot believe... money was paid for the reason of friendship alone," the report said, "but does not now have before it any direct evidence that monies were corruptly paid to or on behalf of members of the General Assembly to influence them with respect to their official duties..."

To this the grand jury foreman added: "The records... indicate there have been abuses of the lobbying processes during recent sessions of the General Assembly."

At this point it is easy for the public to be led to believe that lobbying in itself is an evil that ought to be disposed of as quickly as possible. But the foreman of the jury did not stop there.

"In most instances lobbying is carried on in an honorable and ethical manner and conduct of most members of the General Assembly is above reproach in this regard," he said.

It is also important to bear in mind that the indicted lobbyist does not stand accused because he lobbied, but because the grand jury felt he had failed to report his lobbying expenses in great enough detail to satisfy the law's requirements.

In other words, the law does not ban lobbying. It only bans attempts to hide what a lobbyist pays to work for what.

There is a good reason for that. It would be next to impossible for any Legislature to accomplish anything without the aid of lobbyist. One session of the General Assembly is called upon to render decisions on something more than 1,000 proposals involving a most as many subjects.

A lobbyist is an informed specialist in his field, and the total of all the lobbyists attending a session represents a vast scope of expert knowledge.

A legislator, on the other hand, may be an informed specialist in one or two fields at most. He cannot expect to cast intelligent votes on 1,000 other subjects without some expert help.

The honest legislator thus uses lobbyists to inform himself. He listens to lobbyists on all sides of a particular question, tries to separate the ax-grinding from the information, weighs this with his best information on the needs of his constituents and thereby puts himself in a position to make a reasonably intelligent decision.

The dishonest legislator is simply looking for a free ride, a meal ticket, a rent-free room and perhaps a little bonus money. In return for these things he will agree to sell his votes with no concern for conscience or constituents.

That is the kind the lobbying laws were written to expose. The honorable legislator and the honorable lobbyist need have no fear of either the law or grand jury investigations.

The public need have no fear of lobbying in its Legislature unless, as the Franklin County jury reported, the laws "have been so disregarded that the results amount to a farce."

A Chance To Correct An Injustice

Despite the legal basis for the ruling, the Franklin County common pleas court injunction barring the metropolitan federation amendment from Ohio's November ballot appears to be a case of splitting hairs to thwart the intention of the General Assembly.

Certainly the provisions of the state constitution are not to be taken lightly. They exist to protect citizens from improper shenanigans aimed at circumventing the proper processes of democracy. They exist to protect citizens from unjust laws arrived at by unjust means.

But none of these hazards is present in the metropolitan federations issue.

No final enactment of law is involved. If the Legislature's resolution were declared valid, Ohio's citizens would not be burdened with extra taxes or faced with the prospect of enduring some unreasonable requirement or prohibition of law.

They would only be asked to make their own decision at the polls on whether the state's 12 most populous counties should be permitted to set up utility or service federations in an effort to bring modern administrative methods to local government.

Even if the amendment were approved at the polls, its use by local governments would be entirely voluntary. The only mandatory aspect of its provisions would be that no federation could take effect until every voter involved had had a chance to express his approval or disapproval.

As for improper legislative processes, anyone who watched the progress of the resolution through the 103rd General Assembly can attest to the fact that there were no shenanigans. The issue was debated openly and sometimes heatedly, and the final vote of approval in the House was close.

And the intention of the Legislature was clearly to give the people of Ohio a chance to reconsider their adverse decision on the amendment a year ago.

It is unfortunate that a legislative clerk made the technical error on which the validity of the resolution is challenged. But it is equally unfortunate for democracy in Ohio that those who oppose the substance of the proposed amendment are using that technicality to block the right of the state's voters to decide the issue for themselves.

Fortunately, the situation can be corrected by a higher court's ruling on the attorney general's appeal from the injunction. We think there is very solid ground for reversing it.

The Boys in the Back Room

The joke that everybody is beginning to understand, about optimists learning to speak Russian and pessimists trying to learn Chinese, probably tells more about Laos than anything the United Nations investigating team will dig up on its flying visit.

The Russian Communists are locked in a deadly embrace with the Chinese Communists, who outnumber them and have aspirations to out-think them. It is conceivable by a far stretch of imagination that the Kremlin pushed the ideological button that started trouble in this remote country in Southeastern Asia. But it is conceivable with no stretch of the imagination that the button was pushed in Peiping, which does not want Comrade Khrushchev to forget that in any showdown with the non-Communist world there are more Chinese Communists to be thought about than Russian Communists.

The Communist conspiracy as such is a one-party setup. But even in one-party setups there is a division of opinion—a two-party system. In the Communist conspiracy there is the Russian bloc and the Chinese bloc. There also has been a "splinter" party that threatened to grow into something formidable—the Titoists, paced by dissenters in Belgrade.

The trouble in Laos could have been arranged by the Kremlin in some weird version of Machiavellian shaming. But in all probability it was a going-away present to Premier Khrushchev, to commemorate his first trip to the United States. His friends in Peiping would not want to be forgotten.

Among the pessimists of this battered earth who are studying Chinese in case the ideological ball bounces that way must be some of the forward-looking men in the Kremlin, including Khrushchev, himself.

IT'S EASY to find popularity if you enjoy being bored.

By H. I. Phillips

The feat put Khrushchev into an American road show as a combination Houdini, Disney, DeMille and Hammerstein. When Nikita reached America and moon almost simultaneously it was a real daily double. Nobody figured he could make the moon, Coon Rapids, Waldorf-Astoria, the Dentists' convention and the Beltsville chicken farm in one week.

EDWARD DRAKE who dug the first oil well in Titusville, Pa., should have been America's first oil king but he took no self-protective steps and wound up broke. A fact, not generally known, is that Drake was a New Haven road conductor, chosen by Jim Trowbridge to go to Titusville only because Drake had a free pass and could get there without expense. When he didn't strike oil fast, his backers "took a powder" and Drake was financed through a note signed by a Pennsylvania druggist and general store owner.

Cornelia Otis Skinner has been named the first woman head of National Brotherhood Week. (Certainly nobody can give better imitations of it.)

"The accomplishments was a conquest of cosmic space which will ease tensions and strengthen the cause of world peace"—Moscow statement. (Up to now we hadn't figured the moon had anything to do with all the trouble.)

Now, Regarding Berlin . . .

Khrushchev's Box Score

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The box-score on Premier Nikita Khrushchev—after his two-day whirl-around in the capital—comes down to this: no hits, no runs, no errors. But he's a big league, just the same.

He was no hit with the thousands who stood mute as he whizzed by. There have been no apparent gains from his visit so far, since he has promised nothing and conceded nothing. But he didn't commit any bobbles either.

He had plenty of chance to make a fool of himself or anger Americans in his public appearances and statements. He did neither. He just sounded like a carbon copy of letters he had written President Eisenhower in the past. He repeated himself.

Khrushchev has a bit of a ham in him—mugging in front of the camera, stealing scenes from Eisenhower, pumping hands, slapping backs, being a jolly good fellow—but anyone watching could well have wondered: Was this round little man with the bald head and the peasant's face, bouncing around town tirelessly, the last chance this country might have for a long, long time to melt the cold war?

He's 65. He may not last much longer. He's a Communist, and a tough one, but, compared with Stalin, he's been a breath of fresh air in the Soviet Union, a liberalizing force.

If this country cannot work out some settlements with him, then with whom? His successor may be more of a Stalinist and try not only to turn the clock back in the Soviet Union but to make the cold war more frigid than it is now.

In his public statements—those repetitions of what he had long said before coming here—Khrushchev didn't bend an inch on the Berlin dilemma he himself created or on anything else.

The most he has done so far—toward trying to reach some agreements—is to indicate that he may make some new proposals on disarmament before the U. N. Friday. Maybe there will be some changes when he talks with Eisenhower next week.

This, like practically everything else that has been said about his visit, is plain guessing since no one so far has attempted to state as a fact the reason for his coming here in the first place.

But Khrushchev in his televised appearance before the National Press Club showed he is not only mentally fast but has such good self-control that he can flame into anger one instant and turn cool the next.

He was also fast enough to duck the Press Club questions he didn't want to answer, and, according to some senators with whom he had tea later, he nimbly skipped around the questions put to him by them too when it suited him.

There have been more suave heads of government than Khrushchev but he, like other Bolsheviks before him, wastes no time on fancy-Dan stuff. He's plain Joe, down to earth.

He didn't let himself get photographed in a full dress suit or even a tuxedo, which to poor people is a mark of the well-to-do. He went to Eisenhower's white-tie dinner in his regular street clothes.

The Khrushchevs look like plain people, dress like plain people, and don't pretend to be anything else.

Nothing tangible at all may come of this visit. But Khrushchev—by his dress, his manner, his bluntness, and his firmness in the capital of capitalism—has undoubtedly already done himself immeasurable good with the people back home and perhaps millions of poor people elsewhere too.

Invitation to Crisis

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Vital Problem Not Solved by Congress

Twice in three months President Eisenhower warned Congress that the artificial interest limits on long-term government securities was in invitation to a grave crisis for the nation — a open road to inflation which might sweep over all of us.

Politics, and perhaps failure to understand the seriousness of the problem, prevailed. First the House and finally the Senate provided a wholly inadequate answer.

The heart of the issue is something that most of us regard as of interest only to bankers, insurance companies and other heavy investors. But when its full significance is made clear it comes into the lives and homes of every American.

It is concerned with the question whether the federal government, in meeting the huge obligations by borrowing, will act in a way to check rather than further feed the fire of inflation.

It is easy to understand a part of the issue. Anyone who has some money to lend or invest will seek a borrower who will pay the highest price for the use of the money.

Individuals, trust funds, pension funds and institutions are not buying long-term government bonds as they did before because they can get better terms from other borrowers.

THIS COMPELS the Treasury to meet current expenses by short-term bills, certificates and marketable short-term securities. These are merely ways to get help until tax receipts come in or by more borrowing.

These are mostly bought by banks and corporations but in the past year with increasing business activity corporations have had the need for other uses of their money.

Also, the banks are under pressure to lend money to borrowers other than the government. Hence the interest rates on these short-term issues have had to be raised (there is no ceiling to the interest on them) to the highest since the banks were closed in 1933.

Last year the Treasury paid only 1½ per cent for one year loans. Today it is compelled to pay 4½ per cent and this will probably go higher.

This means the government's expenses must go higher and higher, which means more borrowing. It is a vicious circle. Even for 13 week loans it must pay as high as 3.9 per cent.

The present situation is full of danger because so much must be raised to meet the spending demands of a thriftless Congress. In the next year the Treasury must borrow 78 billion dollars — before the end of this year, seven billion of this.

It must compete with all sorts of competition for money: states, cities, school districts and corporations. In a free market this leads to higher and higher prices for money.

Meanwhile, holders of savings bonds are cashing them in because they they can find more profitable ways to spend their money or are afraid of coming inflation.

There is a movement of money from securities to tangible things, which is always a dread signal. The spirit of an economy is confidence and when long-term government bonds are not selling or are being sold by their owners, the very credit of the United States is threatened.

SHORT-TERM borrowing by the government is inflationary in another way. Since most of these offerings are taken by banks they are listed in the books as deposits. This means that the bank can offer more credit.

Since credit is the equivalent of money under modern conditions, this is something like creating money. That is inflationary.

As Secretary Anderson told Congress, "the shorter it gets, the more short-term financing is like money." This was an ominous warning.

But the President and Secretary Anderson are compelled to make understatements. They cannot alarm the people because that would create panic, which would greatly inflame the conditions that already exist.

It is almost unbelievable that in the face of this situation Congress should have failed to take adequate action.

The result may well be that the President may have to call Congress into special session before the year is out. Perhaps that is the only way left to focus public attention on the critical problems sketched above and force Congress to meet its duty.

The Worst Is Over

By TRUMAN TWILL

Max Frankel wrote a dispatch for The New York Times from Moscow a few days ago describing the coming of fall in the Russian capital. It was a moving bit of poetic prose—poetic because it evoked images of scudding clouds, women huddled in shawls against the encroaching cold and the end of one of the city's loveliest and happiest summers.

Everyone who has a typewriter handy is tempted once a year to take a crack at this theme.

Next to spring, no season sets off half so many high-flown descriptions as the coming of fall. But there is a twist to it, because it is not the coming of fall that brings forth the descriptions. It is the passing of summer.

Summer . . . That's when the cupboard doors, the bathroom doors and the closet doors grow a quarter of an inch and cannot be closed. It isn't too bad with the cupboard doors and the closet doors. But with the bathroom doors, it's bad.

That's when the flies crawl in under the screen, follow every person who enters the house and thereafter spend their time walking on the ears and the arms of its occupants.

That's when a myriad of insects too small to be strained out by screen cloth wriggle through whenever the inside lights are turned on and spend happy hours thereafter drowning in drinks, playing hide-and-seek under the bed covers and competing with one another to see how far into the human ear they can crawl before they get stuck fast in ear wax.

That's when mosquitoes, sweat flies and everything else that flies and has a sharp proboscis love to drill through human skin to determine when the threshold of bearable pain has been crossed and the victim will scream a terrible oath and try to inflict death.

Summer That's when a house in the distant suburbs absorbs so much moisture from the night-time mists and day-time rains that it begins to smell like a rare old cheese curd in mold when water pipes bearing ice-cold well water drip as if they had sprung their seams when bedding and clothing are damp to the touch for weeks on end.

The ignorance of some parents is what makes them say the questions of their youngsters are silly.

That's when every luxuriant expanse of green conceals a few tendrils of poison ivy throwing off poisonous capers at a rate sufficient to give the miseries to allergy-prone passersby.

That's when lawn grass fails to show restraint and grows as sturdy in August as it grows in May, necessitating a mowing every fifth day, instead of once a week, which is as often as lawns should have to be mowed in any reasonable climate.

That's when clothing fresh from the cleaners fails to stay fresh past the first half hour and thereafter looks as if it had been worn day and night throughout a journey into the deepest interior of wildest Tibet.

Summer . . . That's when vacationers on the loose with nothing better to do call on old friends in places they are passing through and renew old acquaintance while the clock ticks on and work piles up and plans for a evening cook-out swirl down the drain.

That's when sleepless nights become a way of life instead of an occasional emergency; when "that tired feeling" lingers day in and day out for weeks at a time; when hay fever victims turn into moist caricatures of human beings and asthma sufferers gasp for enough oxygen to carry them through the next 10 minutes.

I can write about autumn as eagerly as the next one, and when I do I waste no time mooning about summer, which lately seems to me to have become a grossly overrated season that wears out its welcome with too much humidity, too many bugs and too much hearty growing of greenery, noxious and otherwise.

Confidential to Max Frankel: I'll bet the Muscovites are glad when it's finally over, too.

This column is going to be on vacation for the next few weeks, and chances are that with Nikita Khrushchev performing on Pg. 1 it will not be missed.

THE TEEN-AGER WHO IS PLAGUED by long, fine, straight hair (left) can do something about it. Most likely, it should be shampooed twice a week since fine hair tends to cling to the head and give an impression of sparseness. Rolling it up every night, if you haven't a permanent, will help to give it body and fullness. Another help lies in styling. This teen-ager (center) has had her old hairdo restyled. Spiked bangs spread across the forehead; the ends are loosely curled and secured at the back with a big bow. Her eyebrows have been carefully plucked into a clear line and very lightly penciled. For parties, her new hairdo can be combed (right) with bangs drawn circular fashion across the forehead and secured with a miniature nosegay. Hair should be lightly dampened first and sprayed to hold it in place. Ends are brushed under in a loose semblance of a page boy. Basis for any hairdo is, of course, proper cutting and shaping.

Formal Initiation Scheduled Oct. 7 By Women of Moose

Women of the Moose will hold formal initiation in addition to its annual Christmas in October program for Mooseheart and Moosehaven Oct. 7 in the Moose Temple.

Each member is to bring an unwrapped gift for the project.

Plans for the event were made at the chapter's recent meeting in the temple. Mrs. Louise Barnes and Mrs. Mildred Hubble were named chairmen of the program which will be preceded by a covered dinner at 6:30 p.m. The committee will furnish rolls, butter, coffee and cream.

It also was announced that the Oct. 21 meeting will honor star recorders of the chapter.

Mrs. Anna Cannon, senior regent, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Frank Cande, publicity chairman was in charge of the program. One candidate was initiated, and the auditor's report was read by the recorder, Mrs. Leeanna Johnston.

Mrs. C. C. and Mrs. Johnston, delegates to the recent State Conference of Women of the Moose held recently in Mansfield, reported on the business sessions, the coronation of the queen and the presidents banquet which they attended.

Hanoverton Church Is Scene Of Haueter-Edwick Nuptials

Frank Edwick of Salem and his bride, the former Edith Ann Haueter of Hanoverton, are honeymooning in Virginia. The couple exchanged their marriage vows on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Hanoverton Presbyterian Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Haueter of RD 1, Hanoverton and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Frances Edwick of 758 N. Lincoln Ave. and the late Frank Edwick.

Officiating at the double ring service was the Rev. Frank Brickley, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene of Lisbon. The altar, banked with palms, was enhanced by an arrangement of white gladioli. Tapers in twin seven-branch candelabra lighted the setting, and the pews were marked with white bows. Mrs. Fred Kelton of Hanoverton presided at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her ballerina-length dress of white lace over taffeta was styled with three quarter length sleeves and a rounded scalloped neckline and scalloped hem. Rows of ruffles accented the back panel. She wore matching lace mitts and her veil of illusion was attached to a white lace cap. She carried white carnations and pompons on her white Bible.

Miss Eleanor Gall of East Rochester was maid of honor. Her street-length dress of white lace, worn over blue net and taffeta, featured a scoop neck and a blue satin cummerbund. She wore blue satin shoes and a sequin cap with blue face veil. Her colonial bouquet contained pink and blue carnations, yellow pompons and multicolor streamers.

Miss Mildred Haueter, sister of the bride, and Miss Diana Wilson, both of Hanoverton, were bridesmaids. Their pink dresses were styled like Miss Gall's, as were their pink headpieces, and their bouquets were the same as the maid of honor's.

Richard Grim of N. Ellsworth Ave. was best man. Wilbur Haueter of Hanoverton, brother of the bride, and Louis Coccia Jr. of Salem ushered.

The bride's mother was attired in a navy blue and white ensemble with white accessories. Mrs. Edwick chose a two-piece navy dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

White gladioli decorated the bride's home, where the reception was held. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped by the traditional bride and bridegroom ornament, was served to the guests by Mrs. Wilbur Haueter, Mrs. Richard Altstadt and Miss Nancy Gall.

Mrs. Arnold Bruckner registered the 100 guests from Salem, Leetonia, Lisbon, Alliance, East Liverpool, Kensington, Columbus, and California and Pennsylvania.

The bride is a graduate of Lisbon's David Anderson High School and the A & H School of Beauty Culture in East Liverpool. Mr. Edwick, a graduate of Salem High School, is a senior at Kent State University.

For traveling, the bride wore a green dress with black accessories complemented by the corsage or white carnations from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return from the wedding trip, the newlyweds will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple presented gifts to the attendants when the rehearsal party was held in the Edwick home.

Columbian Branch of the Salem City Hospitals Auxiliary will meet for a sewing session at 10 a.m. Monday in Grace United Church. Members are to take a poke lunch. Coffee will be furnished.

Two hundred anti-Communist pickets chanted "murderer" as Khrushchev arrived at U.N. headquarters, but he gave no sign he heard them. He may not have, since police kept them at a distance, and the 40 automobiles and 100 motorcycles in the cavalcade made quite a din.

By the time the dinner ended, the pickets had left.

Earlier in the day, when Khrushchev left the U.N. after his disarmament address, 400 pickets staged the first demonstration of the Premier's visit. Shouting "murderer" and waving placards, they surged on police lines. Two of the demonstrators were arrested.

Joe Harry Jackson Jr., 16, of East Liverpool was fined $10 for reckless operation, and Richard Neill Hanna, 15, of Lisbon RD 4, $25 for driving without a driver's license.

William B. Kent, 16, of Alliance forfeited a $10 bond for parking on the highway. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Soil District Board Election Scheduled

Khrushchev

Angeles. Sunday he is off for San Francisco.

Then comes the trip back by way of Des Moines and Pittsburgh, winding up with a series of talks with President Eisenhower.

Friday, Khrushchev put in what of his typical days. That is, it had a bit of everything.

In his U.N. disarmament proposal, he suggested: Let's take our armies, navies, air forces, nuclear weapons, military rockets, military schools, and toss them on the scrap heap.

Complete disarmament, by treaty and under strict international control, the Soviet Premier said, is the "lever by which mankind could be stopped from backsliding into the abyss of war."

The reaction to this proposal was about what you would expect: Officials from Communist nations cheered, those from other nations were either skeptical or cautious.

As everyone knows by now, Mr. K. is a man of many moods and parts.

He used and played them all Friday.

In the morning, at Hyde Park, where he laid a wreath on the grave of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, he was solemn and restrained.

In the afternoon, when he met a leading exponent and beneficiary of the capitalist system, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, he mixed it up.

Or, to use Rockefeller's account "He is serious, then he is gay, but always with a very keen look coming out of his eyes."

Later, Mr. K. was busy whipping around lower Manhattan, taking a brisk view of Wall Street.

Khrushchev, who often has used Wall Street as a whipping boy, treated the famous street kindly.

"What can you say when you get a view of only a few minutes from the window of a car?" he asked. "If I said anything, that would be thinking up something and I don't want to do that."

Khrushchev stopped to visit the Empire State Building, the world's largest skyscraper. There he took a shot of brandy, which brought forth one of the few English words he knows.

"Okay, Okay," said Mr. K. He wound up his day back at the U.N., guest at a dinner given by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Two hundred anti-Communist pickets chanted "murderer" as Khrushchev arrived at U.N. headquarters, but he gave no sign he heard them. He may not have, since police kept them at a distance, and the 40 automobiles and 100 motorcycles in the cavalcade made quite a din.

42-0 Rout Of Cleveland Lincoln Launches Salem Season

Local Line Maneuvers at Will; Phillis Romps for Three TD's, Schmauch Crosses Goal Twice

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Salem's Quakers, flashing mid-season form, opened their 1959 football season Friday night with a smashing 42-0 victory over Cleveland Lincoln before 4,100 fans at Reilly Stadium.

The 42-point spread was the largest any Salem team had built up in an opening game since 1924 when Columbiana was administered an 80-0 shellacking.

Salem's backs were superb, but for a line that supposedly was outweighed 27 pounds per man, the performance of the Quaker forward wall was amazing. They moved and outmaneuvered their heavier opponents almost at will.

Spearheaded by 190-pound tackle Joe Julian, the Quakers kept their goal line uncrossed while fullback Pete Schmauch and veteran halfback Fred Phillis ran wild against the Cleveland defenders.

Quarterback Vince Horning showed that he has come a long way offensively since last season. He teamed up with halfback Frank Copacia for Salem's other touchdown on a well executed 32-yard pass play.

Salem made good on three two-point conversions. Ron Janovec carried the mail on two of them while Copacia picked up the other.

Co-captain Phillis scored Salem's first six-point before the game was three minutes old. After Janovec returned Chris Kopin's opening kickoff 19 yards to Salem's 44 yard line, the Quakers needed just five plays to go the remaining 56 yards.

Schmauch and Copacia carried the all for first downs before Phillis took off around left end with a handoff from Horning and scampered 35 yards for the score. Phillis got a key block from TONY Petrucci on the 16 which cleared his path to the goal.

COPACIA CARRIED around his own right end for the two point conversion.

Alert Charlie Metcalf fell on a Lincoln fumble on Cleveland's second play from scrimmage after the kickoff and Salem once again took over the ball just 31 yards from paydirt.

However, on the very next play, Horning missed connections on a handoff and the ball went back to Cleveland Lincoln managed to hold on to the pigskin for just one play before Phillis picked off a Steve Boczulak pass and brought it back to the Salem 41.

Nine plays later Salem was knocking on the door again, Phillis, Schmauch, and Janovec had moved the ball to the one foot line from where Phillis dived off tackle for his second touchdown of the quarter.

Janovec went around right end for the conversion and Salem led with two minutes left in the first quarter, 16-0.

SCHMAUCH PICKED up the only score in the second period on a four-yard slice off tackle. The play climaxed a drive that netted 45 yards in seven plays. Janovec was thrown short of the goal on his conversion try off right tackle. Salem led at the half 24-0.

Coach Bernard Rickelman's crew opened the second half looking like a new club. Steve Mikolaj took Rick Sulea's kickoff to his own 33. For the first time in the game Lincoln started to roll.

With Jim Solary, a 195-pound fullback, and quarterback Boczulak doing most of the carrying, Lincoln ground out 60 yards in 13 plays to place the ball on Salem's 7 yard line. After being held to a single first down in the entire first half, Lincoln picked up five in this drive. One of the first downs came on a pass interference call against cornerman Charlie Horn.

With a first down and goal to go from the seven, Lincoln was charged with a costly off-side penalty. Haschak then picked up one yard through the middle. On second down, Janovec knocked down a Boczulak pass on the three. Boczulak then completed a toss to Haschak who was knocked out of bounds on the three by cornerman Horning.

ON FOURTH DOWN and goal to go from the three, big Julian wrapped his arms around Haschak and with some help from Petrucci and Horning, stopped Lincoln's only serious threat of the game on the two-yard line.

The goal line stand inspired

Coach Earle Bruce's crew. After just seven plays the Quakers had their fourth touchdown. It came on a 98-yard drive. Schmauch went off his own right side and cut up the middle to go the final 29 yards for the score.

Highlighting the drive was a 35-yard pass play from Horning to end Don Davidson. The speedy end got behind his defenders and probably would have gone all the way had he not had to slow down to wait for the ball.

Janovec once again was smeared in trying to run for the extra points.

TACKLE NED CHAPPELL, who plays linebacker on defense, set up Salem's fifth score with his second pass interception of the night. Chappell, who runs well despite his 190 pounds, picked off a Lincoln pass on the Cleveland 47 and returned it 15 yards to the 32.

On the next play, Horning flipped a pass to Copacia over the left side. The halfback gathered it in on the 23, got the one block he needed from Horn and went all the way for the touchdown.

After this touchdown Bruce started to clear the bench. Julian came out of the game for the first time.

Phillis accounted for the final touchdown midway through the quarter on a two-yard plunge. Salem had taken over on the Lincoln 30 when Davidson got a hand on an attempted fourth down punt by the Clevelanders and blocked the ball.

SULEA ATTEMPTED to place kick the extra point but the ball hit the goal post and bounced away.

Lincoln took to the air in the closing minutes of the game with little success. Their last effort, the final play of the game, was intercepted by Gary Devan.

During halftime ceremonies, Miss Sally Fester was crowned Salem High School's Football Queen for 1959.

Officiating last night's game were Peter Colodi of Sharon, Pa., Mike Maro of Campbell, Don McHee of Youngstown and Nick Frascella of Akron.

Boardman Scores Win Over Poland

A tough Boardman offense was able to penetrate the stout defense of the Poland Bulldogs as the two schools made their season's debut at Boardman Stadium Friday night. Boardman won 20-14.

The two squads held each other scoreless throughout the first period, but early in the second frame Bulldog quarterback Bob Ludd let loose with a 19-yard pass to end Jim Strook for the game's first score. Ludd then passed to left half John Talbott for the two points.

Boardman bounced right back and tallied twice on plunges of two and three yards by halfback Mike Lagaras.

The Bulldogs then made a spirited effort to regain lost ground and drove 64 yards for their final tally. Fullback Jim Glaser plunged over from the one-yard line following a 63-yard pass play.

Poland held the edge at the middle of the fourth period 14-12, only to have Boardman wipe that out on a five-yard run by halfback Jim Thompson. Boardman quarterback Don Hunsinger tallied the two extra points on a keeper play.

Lisbon Scores In Every Period

Brooks, Fry Pace Blue Devils To 52-14 Win Over Goshen

Halfback Tom Brooks and fullback Paul Fry led the Lisbon Blue Devils to a resounding 52-14 opening game victory over the Goshen Gophers at the stadium in the county seat Friday night.

The Gophers never threatened until the final minutes of the contest when quarterback Charles Wilson tallied on a five yard run and Jim Anderson picked up a pair of extra points with a run.

Brooks and Dennis Johnson accounted for all of the Blue Devils' scoring in the first canto. Brooks scored on runs of 30, 70, and 15 yards in that period. Johnson added a total of four extra points.

Lisbon managed to tally twice more in the second quarter as Brooks added another tally on a two-yard plunge and Fry tallied on a two-yard end run.

Goshen proved a little tougher in the third period, holding the Blue Devils to six points on a four-yard run by Fry.

Brooks added six more points in the opening minutes of the final period on a one-yard plunge. Lisbon got its final marker at most immediately on the succeeding kickoff. A Goshen player touch-

Robinson In Outfield Post Once Again

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Frankie Robinson has won a battle with the brass of the Cincinnati Reds—to get rid of his first base job.

Robbie despised the job when he got it at spring training in Florida. He let it be known he couldn't do his best there. He wanted to be back in the outfield.

He quickly became the Reds' slugging specialist this year, hammering his way up among the league's top 10 in average, home runs and RBI.

But that didn't slow down his sniping about the first base post. Manager red Hutchinson finally shifted Robinson back to the outfield a few times late last month. Now he's back in left field for good. Take Hutchinson's word for it.

The manager said "Robinson is underrated in the field. Excepting possibly Jackie Brandt (San Francisco), he's the best defensive left fielder in the circuit."

What about first base? Hutch said, "We figure on Frank Thomas as our first baseman next season."

"The records don't lie, Frank was a strong hitter for four or five years. His injured thumb, we feel, will respond to treatment over the winter and the deal we made for him will look good."

Thomas, acquired from Pittsburgh last winter, failed to hit anywhere near as well as he did in 1958.

The Reds stop here today for the first of two games with the fourth place Pirates. Cincinnati is 3 1/2 games back of the Pirates with six games left on the schedule.

Don Newcombe, Reds' winningest pitcher this season, starts today against Vernon Law.

Bears Tie Game In Final Seconds

Wellsville Host In 8-8 Contest

Leetonia scored a touchdown with seven seconds remaining in the game to tie a stubborn Wellsville eleven-8-8 in a game at Wellsville, Friday night.

The contest was scoreless for the first two periods, with neither team able to penetrate the other's defense.

In the third stanza, Wellsville cog Pat Albanese snared an eighty-yard pass from quarterback Bob Kiggins and crossed the goal line. The play climaxed a 35-yard drive. Kiggins scored the extra two points on a quarterback sneak.

The Bears got back two points with three minutes and 19 seconds remaining in the final period when a Wellsville player downed a bad pass from center in the end zone for a safety.

The score-tying TD came on a three-yard pass from quarterback Terry Tilley to halfback Dave Firgy.

The touchdown capped a 35-yard drive and was set up on a 24-yard pass play from Tilley to halfback Dave Macry.

The Bears will open their Tri-County League season next Friday when they invade Louisville.

Browns Expected To Look Sharper

CEVLEAND (AP)—Coach Paul Brown didn't come out and say it flatly, but he's implied rather strongly that his Cleveland Browns are going to look a little sharper tonight against the Chicago Bears than they have in losing four of five previous exhibition games.

"It's time we began to get up some momentum, anyway," Brown told the Cleveland Touchdown Club Friday. "The season is only a week away."

The highly-rated Bears, winners of five exhibitions, are four-point favorites for this home debut of the 1959 Browns. Kickoff time at the Stadium is 8:30 (EDT).

"We haven't done so well in the exhibition season, but we've been trying things out," Brown said. "We have hopes of doing better. If we don't, you'll be looking at one disappointed guy."

To his audience of about 750 Brown had a word of praise for Milt Plum, who beat out Jim Ninowski for the quarterback job. Brown said he may have been looking for a "superman" to replace Otto Graham, who "made it tough for anyone to follow him."

"Milt took us to a 9-3 season, which is good enough to win the division title nine out of 10 times, and I wasn't satisfied," Brown went on.

"Well, he has taken over again and is doing a fine job. He has learned by looking and thinking. We're riding with him and we'll see how far he can take us again."

Sandy Valley Blasted 38-6 By Minerva

Sandy Valley scored a touchdown in the final stanza Friday night to avert a shutout by Minerva which romped for a total of 38 points in a game played at Sandy Valley.

The Lions scored in each of the first three periods.

In the second period, fullback Ray Hellyer bulldozed for one-yard through the middle for the Lions' second touchdown.

Quarterback Jim Davison tallied the next touchdown from four yards out, and Dourm added another six points on a 10-yard run off tackle.

The Lions' final touchdown came when right end Chuck Wilson streaked 37 yards in the third period.

Dourm was successful three times in his runs for the extra points. Wilson added two extra points on an end sweep.

Left halfback Glenn Kelly scored the only touchdown for Sandy Valley.

Davison threw six passes during the evening and connected on five, good for 59 yards.

Minerva will open its Tri-County League season next Friday when it plays host to the Lisbon Blue Devils.

Gordon Quits as Tribe Manager; Lane Talks to Durocher

Joe May Not Finish Season

Nothing Definite As Yet With Leo

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Joe Gordon resigned as manager of the Cleveland Indians Friday and there was mounting evidence his successor would be Leo (Lippy) Durocher, former manager of the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Gordon's resignation came in the face of mounting criticism from his outspoken boss, Frank Lane, who had said he would try to get someone else to manage the Indians in 1960.

While Gordon was writing his resignation, Lane and Vice President Nate Dolin of the Indians were in Pittsburgh talking with Durocher, who has said he will not return to his $65,000 job with the National Broadcasting Company.

Lane said his conference with Durocher was only preliminary and Durocher was only negotiating with other clubs. But there was a growing conviction among those traveling with the Indians that Durocher would lead the club next year.

Lane said he intended to talk to others besides Durocher today and needed permission from other clubs to do so. This meant he might try to hire a manager now under contract to another major league club.

Gordon, relaxed and amiable, said he had no definite plans. Whether he would finish the season with the club was up to Lane, he said.

The fiery general manager has made no secret of his keen disappointment in Cleveland's failure to stay in first place in the American League. He has blamed Gordon's judgment for the loss of a number of games and in recent weeks a bitter dispute became public. Lane criticized Gordon's handling of pitchers and his strategy.

To this Gordon replied: "If Lane wants to run the club on the field he should sit somewhere close enough to signal to me and not second guess me after the game."

Lane said he "liked Gordon's courage but not his judgment." He said he would decide today about a manager for the remainder of the season.

Lane hired Gordon, 4-year-old former star infielder with the Indians and New York Yankees, in June 1958, replacing Bobby Bragan. Gordon got the club up to fourth at the end of the season.

A series of trades brought Vic Power, Jimmy Piersall, Billy Martin, Tito Francona, Minnie Minoso and other players to the Tribe. This season the club surprised the baseball world by vaulting into first place early in the season. When the White Sox beat the Indians four straight and took over the lead late in August, Lane's criticism of Gordon mounted.

One bone of contention was Gordon's failure to use regularly Billy Martin and Jimmy Piersall, two players Lane acquired in winter trades.

Gordon didn't care to discuss these disagreements Friday night. Nor would Gordon discuss a rumor he might replace Jimmy Dykes as manager of Detroit next year.

He said he appreciated the loyalty of some Cleveland fans who suggested Lane should quit instead of Gordon.

"They miss the point," he said. "Mr. Lane is the boss and if we don't see eye to eye it's time for me to step out."

Said Lane: "I'm not running for an unpopularity prize but I would be a coward if I didn't do the things I think I should to try to bring a pennant to Cleveland."

Races Set Sunday By Motorcycle Club

The Western Reserve Flyers Motorcycle Club will hold its final scrambles races of the year at 1 p.m. Sunday on the club's courses near the Middletown Rd. between Routes 45 and 62.

Approximately 30 motorcycle drivers from northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania are expected to take part in the races over a grueling obstacle course. The races are sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association.

The Western Reserve Motorcycle Club is attempting to raise enough money from the event to construct a club house. Next year the club will open a new flat track which will be used in addition to the present obstacle course.

Race Time Changed At Sharon Speedway
Sunday night's stock car program at the Sharon Speedway will start at 8 p.m. instead of the usual 8:30, according to promoter Jim Novak.

Time trials for the eight event program will get underway at 6:30.

Giants, Dodgers In Crucial Series

The high tension National League pennant race could be all but decided when Sunday dawned. Or it could be completely tangled.

Everything depends on how the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers come out in their crucial day-night double-header and the Milwaukee Braves and Philadelphia Phillies wind up in their single night game.

Going into battle, the Giants lead by two games with the Dodgers and Braves tied for second. Each has eight to play. Friday night's single Giants-Dodgers game was called because of rain, so starters Johnny Antonelli and Don Drysdale had an extra day to rest. They go in the day games.

In the nighter, young Mike McCormick starts for the Giants and Roger Craig gets the call for the Dodgers.

If the Giants can sweep the two games, Los Angeles, for all practical purposes, will be out of the running. The Dodgers then would be four games back with only six to play.

As for the defending champion Braves, they, like the Dodgers, are on the spot with time running out on them. If San Francisco wins two and they lost to the Phillies, they, too, would be in bad shape—3½ games back with seven to play.

Shaffer Ford Led In Team Efforts

Weizenecker Paced Class AA Batters With .446 Average

Jim Weizenecker, slugging catcher for the Beloit Merchants, is the 1959 batting champion in the Class AA Softball League.

Weizenecker rapped off 25 hits in 56 times at bat for a lusty .446 average while playing with the playoff champion Merchants.

The stocky catcher also led the league in runs scored with 17 and hits with 25.

Trailing Weizenecker in the batting department was en Schoei, long ball hitting second baseman for regular season champion SAIDC. Schoei clicked off a .389 average. He tied with teammate Jim Barnes for home run honors; each sent five out of the park.

Barnes and Joe Hrovatic of Arson Transfer also tied for runner-up in home run honors with 15 apiece. Hrovatic was the only player to break up SAIDC's monopoly of the five top home run hitters. His four round trippers tied him for third with Sam Pridon and Roger Stille of the champions.

In third place in batting and just one percentage point behind Schoei was Benny Roelen of Heron's. Roelen's average was .388. Bruce Feicht of Shaffer Ford actually ended up with a higher average, .439, than either Schoei or Roelen, but he went to the plate four fewer times than the 45 at bats required to qualify for the championship trophy.

Another individual trophy was won by Bill Herman, pitching ace for SAIDC. His 14 wins in 15 decisions made him the top percentage pitcher in the league. Herman also struck out 121 opposing batters to lead in that department. Shaffer Ford, who finished in a third place tie with Stephanie's in the final standings, was the team batting leader with a .287 average.

Chester, W. Va., Scores 13-0 Win Over Beaver Local

After a scoreless first quarter, Chester, W. Va., struck once in the second and again in the third period to gain a 13-0 victory over the visiting Beaver Local team.

Chester scored early in the second period on an 80-yard draw play when halfback Bill Mayhue slipped through the Beaver line. Fullback Ken Sayre charged across the goal line for the extra point.

South Ekes Win Over E. Liverpool

Invading Youngstown South eked out a 14-12 victory over a stubborn East Liverpool grid squad Friday night.

Dewitt Underwood of South took the opening kickoff and ran 80 yards for a touchdown. Willie Taylor ran the extra two points, making the score 8-6.

The Potters came back to score when Quarterback Bob Mackall went over from four yards out following an 80-yard march. The try for extra points failed.

South made the score 14-6 when Jay Cunningham took a pass from Ed Price covering 48 yards and hit paydirt in the second quarter. The extra point try was no good.

East Liverpool scored again early in the final stanza when Mackall plunged over from the one-yard line. A pass for the extra points was no good.

Strikeouts—Drysdale, Los Angeles, 228; S. Jones, San Francisco, 200.

(Conversion rules in West Virginia give only one point.)

Picking up some more of Chester's 309 yards on the ground, Sayre plunged over from the two-yard-line in the third quarter for the final scoring of the game. The Beavers were only able to grind out 122 yards rushing.

Beaver halfback John Smith, converted from end position this year, was the leading ground gainer for the Beavers as he picked up 45 yards on nine carries for an average of five yards a try. He matched Chester's Sayre in average although Sayre ran for a total of 89 yards.

Beaver had eight first downs compared with Chester's 11. Both teams intercepted one pass. Chester completed none of three attempts while Beaver connected on a 20-yard play in its four ventures into space.

Indians Dump Athletics 11-2

Piersall, Minoso Lead Tribe Attack

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Indians kept their chances of winning the American League pennant mathematically alive Friday night by beating the Kansas City Athletics, 11-2, in the opener of the three-game series.

The victory kept the Indians 3½ games behind league-leading Chicago, but the magic number was reduced to two with Chicago's 1-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Joe Gordon, who announced shortly before the game that he would not return as manager of the Indians next season, was in the dugout as usual Friday night.

The Indians got nine unearned runs, more than they've had in more than a month. They got six runs in the seventh inning, all unearned, and four in the ninth, three of them unearned.

Jim Piersall and Minnie Minoso got three hits apiece in the Indians' eight-hit attack. Piersall hit a home run and two singles to drive in three runs. Minoso drove in four runs with a double and two singles.

Rookie Jim Perry gave up only five hits in going the distance to gain his 12th victory against nine defeats.

A home run by rookie Lou Klimchick, 19-year-old second baseman, in the third inning was the only earned run by Perry. The Athletics scored their other runs in the bottom of the ninth, helped by a wild throw by third baseman George Strickland.

Southpaw Bud Daley, who started for the A's, didn't allow a hit until two out in the sixth inning, when Piersall hit his homer to tie the score at 1-1.

Daley lost both his control and his support in the seventh when the Indians broke the game wide open with six runs on three hits, three walks and two errors. He was relieved by Ray Herbert after four runs were in. Herbert gave way to Al Gუნwald in the ninth and the Indians got four runs off him on four hits and an error.

Jack Harshman (6-10) will pitch for the Indians in the second game of the series tonight. He will be opposed by Johnny Kucks (8-10).

Havana Defeats Richmond 2-1

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The same two pitchers who didn't quite make it all the way in the opener Tuesday will give it another try here Saturday night as Havana's Cubans shoot for a commanding 3-1 advantage in the International League's best-of-seven final playoff series.

Ted Wieand for Havana and Jim Bronstad for Richmond will start the fourth game of the series, in which Havana grabbed a 2-1 lead Friday night with a 2-1 win behind the pitching of Raul Sanchez and the hitting and fielding of little Yoyo Davallillo.

Wieand and Bronstad matched shutouts until the ninth inning.

Chicago Tops Detroit 1-0

Magic Number Now 2 For White Sox

By The Associated Press
The magic number for the Chicago White Sox today was two.

Any combination of two White Sox victories or two Cleveland Indians' defeats and Al Lopez' club wins its first American League pennant in 40 years.

In fact, all the White Sox have to do is lick the Detroit Tigers today and they can't do any worse than tie even if they lose every remaining game and the second place Cleveland Indians win all the rest of their games. Chicago has six games to play and Cleveland seven.

The White Sox maintained their 5½-game margin over the Indians Friday night when they downed the Detroit Tigers 1-0. It marked the Sox' 35th one-run decision.

Bob Shaw shut out the Tigers on five hits for his 17th victory. Sherman Lollar hit a home run in the fifth inning to settle it. Jim Bunning held the Sox to four hits in the seven innings he toiled before giving way for a pinch hitter.

The Indians licked the Kansas City A's 11-2, while in other action, the Boston Red Sox vanquished the New York Yankees, 5-4, and the Washington Senators crushed the Baltimore Orioles, 3-3.

In the National League, the big battle between the San Francisco Giants — protecting a two-game lead—and the Los Angeles Dodgers, tied with Milwaukee for second, was postponed. A day-night doubleheader was scheduled for today. In the only game played, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4, in 13 innings.

Jim Perry of the Indians and Bud Daley of the A's were locked in a tight pitchers' duel for six innings. Each was tagged for one hit, a home run. Lou Klimchick teed off on Perry in the third and Jim Piersall got it back in the sixth.

But the Indians broke the game wide open in the seventh when they scored six runs, and got rid of Daley in the process. They got four more in the ninth.

Frank Baumann was coasting along on a 6-0 lead—the result of a five-run Red Sox outburst in the first inning — when the Yankees suddenly came to life in the ninth. Before it was over, the Yanks had scored four runs and Mike Fornieles had to come in and put out the fire.

Bill Fischer snapped his personal losing streak at six games in turning back the Orioles. He had not won a game since July 15. He gave up only two hits for the first eight innings and was tapped for three more in the ninth before getting out of a jam.

Bulldogs Display Strong Offense

E. Palestine Churns Over Beaver 20-8

East Palestine's Bulldogs bared their teeth Friday night and trotted off the field with a 20-8 win over Beaver, Pa., as they opened their defense of the Tri-County League title and hitched their win skein to 11 before a near capacity crowd at East Palestine.

Coach Howard Weyers' team displayed the strong ground defense and offense with which they have taken the league trophy for the past three years. The Bulldogs churned out eight first downs while holding the Beaver Valley squad to a minus-15 yards on the ground.

East Palestine powered itself along the ground for 194 yards while limiting the visitors to 45 yards through the air on six passes.

Scoreless at the end of the first period, the Bulldogs jumped into the lead with a one-yard plunge as half back George Morris chalked up the first of his two touchdowns. The Bulldogs held their opponents to five plays that quarter.

Shutting out Beaver again in the third period, East Palestine added eight more points when Morris sprinted 11 yards for his final tally of the evening. Halfback Jim Wisser crossed the goal-line to make the score 14-0 a the three-quarter mark. Beaver had the ball for three plays in the third period. In the final period the Pennsylvania team took to the air lanes as they attempted to stop the Bulldogs' offense. They picked up six points on an eight-yard pass from Quarterback Mooney to End Jinkosky. Cashdollar plunged over for the visitor's final points.

Attempting to widen the scoring gap, the Bulldogs also took to the air. A 30-yard pass tossed by Quarterback Willis Woods to Wisser resulted in the final tally for East Palestine.

East Palestine will be hosts to Sebring next Friday at home as it tries to keep its winning streak alive. The Bulldogs edged Sebring 10-14 last year.

Perkins Scores Three TD's

Invading McDonald Eleven Humbled by Columbiana 38-6

Giving promise of a team to be reckoned with, the Columbiana Clippers got their season off to a roaring start Friday when they trounced an invading McDonald team 38-6.

Gary Perkins, 170-pound left halfback, led the attack of the Clippers, scoring three touchdowns.

The losers' lone score came in the third period when Jim Restucco grabbed an opening kickoff and galloped 70 yards to pay dirt.

After a scoreless first period, Columbiana broke the ice in the second frame when Perkins crossed the goal line after snaring a 15-yard pass from quarterback Roger Fritch.

The Clippers' second touchdown in the same period was scored by Perkins on an identical play—15-yard-pass from Fritch, capping a 45-yard push.

In the third stanza, Perkins climaxed a 65-yard drive by scampering seven yards off left guard to score.

The other Clipper TD in that period came when Rich Harold pulled down a seven-yard pass from Joe Bailey and crossed the goal line.

Jim Ambrose went 10 yards on an end sweep to tally Columbiana's final touchdown.

Extra points were scored by Perkins, Rich Kyser and Joe Bailey on runs, and Harold on a pass from Perkins.

Columbiana's next contest will be Saturday when the Clippers meet Poland on the Bulldogs' field.

Purdue, UCLA

Play 0-0 Tie

Florida Blasts
Tulane 30 to 0

Purdue and UCLA, Rose Bowl hopefuls, ushered in college football's first big weekend of the season by battling to a scoreless tie Friday night.

In other Friday night games Florida drubbed Tulane 30-0, Detroit crushed George Washington 38-6 and San Jose State nipped Denver 14-13.

More intersectional games are on tap as the season gets into full swing today. Louisiana State, rated national champions in the final Associated Press poll last year and generally picked to repeat, takes on Rice of the Southwest Conference in a nationally televised game.

Other intersectional clashes find Mississippi at Houston, Texas at Nebraska, Pitt at Marquette, Penn State at Missouri and Kansas at Texas Christian.

The new lengthened crossbar of the goal posts failed to help either Purdue or UCLA in their night game at Los Angeles. Both missed field goal tries in the last five minutes.

Two lads from the state of Oklahoma led Florida to victory over Tulane at New Orleans. Quarterback Jack Jones, of Commerce, passed for two touchdowns and intercepted a Tulane aerial for another. Bobby Joe Green, of Bartlesville, kept the Green Wave generally deep in its territory with his long punts.

Tony Hanley, a slim 150-pounder, passed for two touchdowns and scored one himself on a 137-yard sneak in leading Detroit to its decisive victory over GW. It was a successful debut for Jim Miller as head coach of the Titans.

Several other new coaches make their debut today.

Navy, for instance, will get its first taste of action under Wayne Hardin, when it plays Boston College, and Maryland will be host to West Virginia, with Maryland's new coach, Tom Nugent, unveiling his new "I" formation.

Still another new coach will be making his debut when Jim Hickey successor to the late Jim Tatum, sends his North Carolina team against Clemson in what looms as an offensive duel.

Football
Written for NEA Service
What is the belly series?
There are many variations of the belly, drive or ride series, all actually refinements of the old hidden ball play.

On this play out of the T, the quarterback fades back a couple of steps on taking the snap. He slaps the ball into the fullback's middle while moving forward with him. At the last second, the quarterback takes the ball back from the fullback and tosses it to the left halfback, who circles right end.

The fullback keeps the ball at times. The left halfback can be sent off tackle. Frequently the quarterback fakes to the left halfback and drops back to pass or run.

Question: How wide are the goal posts under the new rule?

Answer: To encourage field goal kicking the posts in college football were widened from 18 feet 6 inches to 23 feet 4.

RULING MADE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coroner Samuel R. Gerber has returned a verdict of suicide in the death of a housewife found dying in her automobile early Thursday. Mrs. Gladys F. Jeffries, 31, of Garfield Heights, died of a bullet wound just above the heart. A pistol found nine feet outside the open car window was identified by her husband, James, 33, as one he bought recently. The coroner said Mrs. Jeffries had been ill and tried to end her life twice previously.

Whooping Cough Dangerous to Everyone

Whooping cough is often considered a disease of childhood, but this is not always the case. For example, I have recently received a letter from a man who says he is 81 years old and that he and his wife — who is 78 — have had whooping cough for more than eight weeks, to the great distress of both of them. Indeed, whooping cough can be troublesome and dangerous to elderly people as well as to very small children. In general, children from one to 10 years old are most likely to be attacked, but older children, adults and infants under six weeks old can catch it. Vomiting often accompanies whooping cough and when tiny children get the disease they may become starved and thin simply because they do not get enough food.

The time between exposure and appearance of symptoms varies from four to 20 days, but is usually about 10. The symptoms at first, seem like an ordinary cold, but with slight fever, running nose, watering eyes and slight cough. In a week or 10 days, the cough begins to become worse and the typical paroxysms set in. A fit of coughing usually begins with a series of 15 to 20 forced short coughs without any breaths in between. The child may get blue in the face and then take a deep breath of air which sounds like a whoop. Several fits of coughing may come one after another until a small amount of sticky mucus is coughed up which brings temporary relief. When vomiting occurs, it usually comes at the end of the whoop.

Whooping cough carries some danger to life, particularly in infants and old people. The coughing spells place the lungs under severe strain. Pneumonia can develop. Asthma, bronchitis and other lung complications are fairly common.

Because it is contagious, particularly at first, the whooping cough patient should be kept away from others who might become infected. Rest in bed, good nursing care and special attention to the nutrition, especially if there is vomiting, is necessary. Some of the antibiotics appear to be of considerable benefit, particularly when given early.

Prevention is desirable. The vaccine against whooping cough gives considerable protection to children. It is usually best to begin with these injections by or before six months of age, since there is little or no inherited resistance. Good care of the elderly patient with whooping cough is particularly important.

INDICTMENT RETURNED

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — An indictment charging second degree murder was returned by the Ashtabula County grand jury Thursday against Mrs. Arleta Hankins, 49, of Conneaut. She is charged with the fatal shooting of her husband, Earl C. Hankins, 54, business manager of the Ashtabula Star-Beacon, July 26. Mrs. Hankins is free under $20,000 bond.
